

The Top 10 Wines for Summer 2022

Who's ready for a nice glass of wine to ease their way out of winter — and the pandemic — and into warmer, more inviting months? As we fitfully wind our way into summer, we're taking a look back at the past 6 months of wine reviews to highlight our favorite, warmer weather-friendly releases to drop in recent memory.

1. 2019 Gary Farrell Chardonnay Russian River Selection – You can rarely go wrong with Gary Farrell's Russian River Selection chardonnay. This 2019 expression has all the trimmings, balancing apple and vanilla notes with a crisp lemon-driven acidity. A beautiful wine at a price that seems remarkably reasonable considering the quality. $35
